If present Colorado election rules do not already include provision to ensure that the US Constitution requirement that a President of the United States must be a natural born citizen, then I hereby request that it be made so. The rules should include documented verification beyond a signature from any political party representative. No candidate may be entertained for any election leading to the office of President of the United States unless there is legal documentation of both parents having US citizenship at the time of birth of the candidate in a jurisdiction of the United States.

Respectfully requested,
David Wayne Merryman
