Subject: Comments - notary rules - 4/17/2018 hearing

I do have questions regarding the notary signings that I do. There is so much to these new "proposed" rules, that I am a little lost at this point.

I live in eastern Colorado, and I mainly act as a mobile notary. I work for myself. I don't do a lot of them, as there are many small towns from Denver to the Kansas line, so not a lot of activity. Most of my signings are refis. I travel to the borrowers' homes and then return home, and fedex the signed documents back to either the title company or the mortgage company. They always include a label for that process. Sometimes, I am required to fax some of the documents first. It varies. I do keep up on my journal, so I am good with that part.

In reading over this proposal, there is a part that I am a little fussy on, more than some of the other parts. That is the DAN. I am thinking that since I don't do electronic signatures - I am actually on site with the people, and have them sign my journal, etc., that this won't affect me.

In my capacity as a mobile signer, is there anything that will change for me? My notary expires 10/22/19. Any information that I will need to know, please let me know.

Thanks for your help,
